NOTE

In Volume I the pagination failed to include half-titles to each of the twelve numbers, as well as the Foreword pages to the same. Reference therefore to quotations on the half-title pages in this volume is given by the month (as e.g., Vol. I, Jan., 1895).

It has been thought desirable to have Index err, if at all, on the side of fullness, as in many instances complete sonnets and poems of rare beauty have been printed on a half-title only, which to omit entry here would be to lose sight of what the Editor of The Bibelot has prided himself on placing before his readers. These citations have all been verified and where the name of author was not given, it has been restored in this Index.

BLAKE, WILLIAM,

Lyrics:

Ah Sunflower, weary of time,	I: 16
Are not the joys of morning sweeter,	I: 19
Awake, awake, my little boy,	I: 21
Hear the voice of the Bard,	I: 12
How sweet I roamed from field to field,	I: 1
I give you the end of a golden string,	I: 24
I feared the fury of my wind,	I: 20
I have no name,	I: 11
Little lamb, who made thee?	I: 7
Love seeketh not itself to please,	I: 13
Memory, hither come,	I: 3
My silks and fine array,	I: 2
Piping down the valleys wild,	I: 6
Sleep, sleep, beauty bright,	I: 17
The Angel that presided o'er my birth,	I: vii
The caverns of the Grave I've seen,	I: 23
The door of Death is made of gold,	I: 22
The sun descending in the west,	I: 9

INDEX

BLAKE, WILLIAM,

Lyrics:

The Sword sang on the barren heath,	I: 24
The wild winds weep,	I: 4
Thou fair-haired Angel of the Evening,	I: 5
Tiger, tiger, burning bright (two versions),	I: 14, 15
To find the western path,	I: 18
To Mercy, Pity, Peace, and Love,	I: 8
To see a world in a grain of sand,	I: 24

BLAKE, WILLIAM (poem), James Thomson, I: viii

BRIDGES, ROBERT,

Lyrics:

Again with pleasant green,	II: 278
Assemble, all ye maidens, at the door,	II: 271
Behold! the radiant Spring,	II: 282
Clear and gentle stream,	II: 265
I have loved flowers that fade,	II: 286
I love all beauteous things,	II: 263
I love my lady's eyes,	II: 291
I will not let thee go,	II: 269
O Youth whose hope is high,	II: 292

CAMPION, DR. THOMAS,
A Book of Airs:
Advance your choral motions now,	I: 275
Awake, awake, thou heavy sprite,	I: 267
Come, cheerful day, part of my life to me,	I: 267
Give beauty all her right,	I: 269
I care not for these ladies,	I: 256
If she forsake me, I must die,	I: 258

INDEX

CAMPION, DR. THOMAS,

A Book of Airs:

Mistress, since you so much desire,	I: 261
My sweetest Lesbia, let us live and love,	I: 255
Never love unless you can,	I: 273
Never weather-beaten sail more willing bent,	I: 266
Now let her change and spare not!	I: 270
Now winter nights enlarge,	I: 271
Shall I come, sweet love, to thee,	I: 272
Sweet, come again!	I: 259
The man of life upright,	I: 264
There is a garden in her face,	I: 274
Though you are young and I am old,	I: 257
Vain men, whose follies make a god of Love,	I: 268
What if a day, or a month, or a year,	I: 277
What is a day, what is a year,	I: 276
What then is love but mourning,	I: 263
When thou must home to shades of underground,	I: 262
When to her lute Corinna sings,	I: 260
Where are all thy beauties now,	I: 265
Whether men do laugh or weep,	I: 278

Lyrics:

As we rush, as we rush in the train,	I:207
He came to the desert of London town,	I:208
He cried out through the night,	I:203
I sighed unto my Muse, "O gentle Muse,"	I:221
In the endless nights, from my bed, where sleep- less in anguish I lie,	I:198
Let my voice ring out and over the earth,	I:205
Neglected now it lies a cold clay form,	I:202
O Antique fables! beautiful and bright,	I:195
O mellow moonlight warm,	I:206
The fire that filled my heart of old,	I:204
The Nightingale was not yet heard,	I:220
The sun was down, and twilight grey,	I:210
The white-rose garland at her feet,	I:201
Thou hast lived in pain and woe,	I:197
Waking one morning,	I:209
